Story Danny is a big, good looking red roan gelding. Well broke. Rides in the arena or out. He was previously used as a ranch horse. Good mouth and responsive to cues. He can sometimes be sensitive and watchy, which makes him more appropriate for a confident, experienced rider. Easy keeper. Barefoot. Current on dental and spring vaccines (5-way.) Well behaved for the vet and farrier. Stalls well. Content to be turned out alone or with others. Easy on fences. Respects hotwire/hot tape. He is polite and careful of people's space when handled. He can act standoffish with new people but he ...

He can act standoffish with new people but he is easily won over with a treat (molasses is his favorite flavor.) No bite/kick. Usually stands tied very well, but has sat back a couple times when startled - never successfully. This year he's been mostly used to babysit/manner newly gelded and/or young, pushy horses in the pasture, so he would benefit from a tune up before going back to regular work. If he's been sitting he can get tense and does best with a quick lunge before getting on.
