Breed GRADE - Not Registered

Story Ringo is a flea bitten gray appaloosa Gelding with lots of mane and tail. He stands approximately 15.2 hands tall, enjoys bare back or saddle for trail. He has also been ridden English and has done some arena work, will side pass but is rusty on that at this time. He will need a tune up as I have not had time to ride him the past several months. Ringo loads well in our 2 horse slant trailer. He loves treats and attention, no kick but did buck me off once. We don't know why and he has been ridden since and has not bucked. He stands for the Ferrier who says he has good feet and doesn't need shoes unless you are going to ride in the gravel a lot. He has one small crack in the front bottom hoof that has never bothered him. Ringo can act nervous when there are lots of horses around that he has never met before. I say ...

who says he has good feet and doesn't need shoes unless you are going to ride in the gravel a lot. He has one small crack in the front bottom hoof that has never bothered him. Ringo can act nervous when there are lots of horses around that he has never met before. I say that because he was nervous when I took him to the Oregon horse center for the mountain trail /obstacle course. He did go over the bridges and up through the trails. He was not nervous when we go to Elijah Bristow and have rode with a group of other horses there. He enjoys trail riding, has been ridden in the mountains and on the beach. He needs a confident rider who has experience and he will aim to please and become your, in your pocket type horse. Ring was seen by the vet in July, was updated again on all of the necessary and his yearly vaccines, had his teeth floated, wormed and coggins was drawn. Feet trim will be done again when due on Sept 15th . He has bucked once, he is a tidy horse. He likes to poop in one corner of his stall . I bring him home sometimes for a month or so and he poops in the same place in the round pen away from his hay. If you would like a copy of the vet visit in July I would be happy to provide you with it along with the name of his Ferrier. jojoriverj@gmail.com 541-868-5354
